About Rochelle

Rochelle graduated with Honours from Curtin University of Technology in 1993. Her Honours thesis examined the relationship between preschool speech and language disorders and later spelling difficulties. Prior to commencing in private practice, Rochelle worked with children in a range of settings in and around Perth, including Southwell Child Development Centre, Midland CDC, Mandurah Community Health and Koondoola CDC. She commenced working in Private Practice in 1996 and has worked solely in the practice since the birth of her first child in 2001. Rochelle has extensive experience in working with children with delayed speech and language skills. She has a particular interest in working with very young children who are late to begin babbling and using early words, as well as in the development of literacy skills in school aged children. In addition, Rochelle has worked with a number of children with complex
